David Tavaré

Since quite a while David Tavaré's first single "Summerlove" had already been the secret soundtrack for many vacation memories. From Portugal to Greece, from Mexico to Chile, vacationers had their cocktails or danced in discotheques to this groovy tune.

David Tavaré was born in 1984 in Pollenca, Majorca, and was brought up on this beautiful holiday island. Not only the closeness to the sea, the sun and the Mediterranean way of life inspired him, but also his family – David is the offspring of a real family of artists: His Dad is a legendary Spanish guitar player, his uncle is the famous English comedian Jim Tavaré (he can be seen in Harry Potter movies). His will for success Davis probably got from his uncle sportsman Chris Tavaré, who was the former captain of the British national cricket team.

The new single "Hot Summer Night (Oh la la la)" contains the catchy hook-line from the '97 European Hit of the band "2Eivissa", and is produced by Ambrogio Crotti and Luis Rodriguez, who have also produced the original version of the song.

The Hit of the summer 2007, to be heard in every holiday destinations, headed straight up the Spanish Top 10 and is still dominating the upper reaches of the chart, ready to hit again the international charts.

Now is for sure: David Tavaré is growing and this is his Hot Summer!
